The Company have done all in their power to make the BURNT RIVER TOLL ROAD as SAFE, CONVENIENT and PRACTICABLE a one as could be made where located. Also claim it to be, for Wagon travel, the most direct and best road leading to the Mines in Idaho and to the Owyhee mines. From the Columbia River our road connects with the line of travel on the Meacham Road and Daly Road both at Straw Ranch and Baker City, also with the Dalles and Canyon City Road at the Washoe Ferry.
We promise the public to spare neither money or time to make the Road a GOOD ONE and to keep it in good condition for travel. In return we expect pay for its value, and if persons do not expect to pay for travelling on Roads, would advise them to try another route.

The following were appointed a committee to prepare a new School Law to be presented to the next Legislative Assembly, viz: E. Cartwright, D. C. Pearson, L. J. Powell, L. D. Shattuck and J. G. Deardoff. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year, viz: President, O. S. Frambes; Vice Presidents, S. [illegible] March, C. [illegible] Finlayson and P. S. DESTITUTION IN GEORGIA.—The Chattanooga Gazette of a late date informs us that many of the people of Georgia are in a state of terrible destitution. That paper says:

From a recent report made by order of the military authorities, it has been ascertained that there are 35,000 men, women and children in the counties of Georgia immediately surrounding Atlanta, who are dependent upon the United States Government for support and preservation from death by hunger. In the counties of North Georgia there must be at least as many more, for at every post and headquarters of the United States forces hundreds of applicants apply daily for relief. To such an extent does this state of affairs prevail that it seriously incommodes the troops, and though every effort has been made to relieve the sufferings of the people, yet vast destitution prevails among them.

An order has recently been issued by General Thomas, ordering that several thousand bushels of corn be distributed among these poor people, which will prove of great benefit. Still, the evil increases day by day, by the arrival of hundreds of poor refugees from points north of here, especially Indiana. During the last three years every man and woman, who was sent north of the Ohio river to remain during the war, was landed at Jeffersonville, and was told to make out as best they could. Whole families, whose property had been destroyed by the conflicts of the war, and who were unable to support themselves at home, were furnished transportation to the Ohio river and set adrift in Indiana. That State had, when the active power of the rebellion was quelled, become overrun with poor people from the South, especially from Georgia, who had lost their all, and were dependent upon the charities of the good people of that State for a living.

Much credit and great honor are due Governor Morton and the loyal people of Indiana for the good nature with which they have submitted to this inconvenience; but the Governor, seeing a way in which he could relieve his State from this burden, has set to work, and he is now sending back these people by hundreds. Every day witnesses train loads of them going up into East Tennessee or down into Georgia. Not one in fifty of these returning refugees have money enough to buy them a meal's victuals, and very often several members of the family are sick, and no medical attendance can be procured for them. The other day a woman who had been sent from some point in the North arrived at Cartersville, the terminus of the road, and had to be removed from the car on a mattress, being so very sick that she was unable to walk, and our informant stated that she was in that condition when she started. There are no means of conveyance from Cartersville to Atlanta except by hiring private teams and paying a high price for them, while at Cartersville there is nothing in the eatable line that can be bought for love or money. We are daily receiving letters in regard to the condition of affairs in Georgia, and it is well that the people of the North should understand this matter.

STATEMENT OF ATZEROTT.—"I am one of the party who agreed to the capture of the President of the United States, or any member of the Cabinet, or Gen. Grant, or Vice President Johnson. The first plot to capture failed; the second, to kill, I broke away from the moment I heard of it. This is the way it came about: On the evening of the 14th of April I met Booth and Payne at the Herndon house, in this city at 8 o'clock. He (Booth) said he himself would take charge of Mr. Lincoln and General Grant, Payne should take Seward and I should take Mr. Johnson; I told him I would not do it, that I had gone into the thing to capture, but I was not going to kill; he told me that I was a fool; that I would be hung anyhow; that it was death to every man who backed out, and so we talked. I wandered about the streets till 2 o'clock in the morning, and then went to the Kimmell House, and from there pawned my pistol at Georgetown, and went to my cousin's house in Montgomery county, where I was arrested, the 19th following; after I was arrested I told Provost Marshal Wells and Provost Marshal McPhail the whole story; also told it to Capt. Moore, and Col. Wells told me if I pointed out the way Booth had gone, I should be reprieved, and so I told him I thought he had gone to Charles county in order to cross the Potomac; the arms which were found in my room at the Kirkwood House, and a black coat, do not belong to me; on the afternoon of the 14th of April Harrold called to me and left the coat there; it is his coat, and all in it belongs to him, as you can see by the handkerchiefs marked with his initials and the name of his sister, Mrs. Naylor; now I will state how I passed the whole of the evening of the 14th of April; in the afternoon, about 2 o'clock, I went to Keltner's stable on Eighth st., near D, and hired a dark bay mare and rode into the cemetery for pleasure, and on my return put her up at Naylor's stable, the dark bay horse which I had kept at Naylor's before, on, or about the [illegible] of April, belonged to Booth, and also the saddle and bridle; I had charge of him to sell him, and I do not know what became of him; at about six in the evening I went to Naylor's again, and took out the mare; I rode out for an hour, and returned her to Naylor's; it was then nearly eight, and I told him to keep the mare ready at 10 o'clock, in order to return her to the man I hired her from; from there I went to the Herndon House; Booth sent a message to 'Oyster Bay,' where I was, saying he wanted to see me, and I went; Booth wanted me to murder Mr. Johnson; I then went to the 'Oyster Bay' on the avenue above Twelfth st., and whiled away the time till about 10; I got the mare, and having taken a drink with the hostler, galloped about town, and went to the Kimmell House; from there I rode down to the depot, and returned my horse, riding up Pennsylvania Avenue to Keltner's; from Keltner's I went to the Navy Yard to get a room with Wash. Briscoe; he had none, and by the time I got back to the Kimmell House it was nearly two; the man Thomas was a stranger I met in the street; next morning, as related, I went to my cousin Richters in Montgomery county.

GEORGE A. ATZEROTT."

THE CHICAGO CONSPIRACY.—The Boston Post announces that "the Chicago Times says there is more fancy than fact in the article in the Atlantic Monthly about the release of rebel prisoners at Camp Douglas, and that General Sweet was more of an imaginary than a real hero in the affair." The Post might have added that the Chicago Times is the most disloyal sheet, and its editor the most disloyal man in the whole Northwest; and for the Post's information we would add that the said editor only escaped arrest as a participator in the conspiracy through the consideration of the same General Sweet, whom he considers more an imaginary than a real hero. As to the article containing more fancy than fact, it is, perhaps, sufficient to say that it is to be reproduced and materially enlarged in book form by Ticknor & Fields, when it will contain documentary evidence to prove every assertion it makes. However, the article is sufficiently verified by the conviction, by a military commission, of every person whom it [illegible] Boston [illegible]

[illegible] PAPER OF THE STATE

FRIDAY MORNING, [illegible] 186[illegible]

The Political Situation in California

I[illegible] there [illegible] which [illegible] Union party [illegible] the state [illegible] is [illegible] likely to a speedy [illegible] the [illegible] Copperhead papers of this State are [illegible] the [illegible] cal situation [illegible] much promation [illegible] in the prospect [illegible] them. [illegible] under which name all the [illegible] progress and the rights of man [illegible] have been [illegible] for [illegible] time [illegible] by reason of the odiousness of their sentiments and cane and [illegible] repeated and [illegible] defeat that most of them wear an [illegible] look which [illegible] the sagacious [illegible] others of their party that all they have to do is to wait quietly for a little time and then go in without effort and win! What wonder is there that this incredulity [illegible]. Any time these many years the same predictions of final success have been uttered in [illegible] the hearing [illegible] the same disorganized party rabble who are asked to heed them now and take courage from the promises they give. But the scattered remnant of the disrupted party [illegible] enthusiasm now that [illegible] and hope are gone. They can no more be crystallized into a solid compact and consistent mass, because the whole economy of their formation is broken up, and there is no point at which the accretive process can begin.

This fragmentary party is doing absolutely nothing in California. Its conduct at this juncture shows that it is incapable of an effort. Never did a party making any pretensions to enter into a canvass in competition with a rival appear so utterly motionless so completely inanimate, as does that torpid thing which, with some parade of speech, is called the "Democracy of California." Nor is it merely lethargic or somnolent; its quiescence tells us plainly that it is utterly dead. Whatever else may befall, there is no danger that this party will ever curse the country with its living presence again.

The disaffection existing in the Union party of California, is about the only theme that our Copperhead papers have been discussing during the past few weeks. The differences that have arisen between Union men in that State are very easily accounted for. These disputes do not divide the party. The simple truth is a few professional politicians in each county of California undertook to corrupt the whole party organization and to place themselves and their favorites in power. Some of these politicians, of whom the chief leader is one, came into the Union party from the "Democracy," solely to obtain office. These political changelings are to be found everywhere in California, however, they have discovered that they cannot rule the Union party. Such beggarly creatures as these, managed the Democratic party while it had an existence, and the very fact that a similar class are unable to manipulate the Union organizations of California to suit their purposes, shows how incomparably better the Union party is, than the vaunted "Democracy" has ever been.

Not long ago, when these characterless politicians found that with all their wealth they were too indigent to purchase the Union men of California and convert them to their own base services as in former times the leaders of the "Democracy" were wont to do with their partisans, they endeavored to create a division in the party and either destroy it or procure their elevation to the places of their seeking. No attempt of this kind ever failed more miserably. The disorganizers find themselves out of all sympathy with the party and followed only by a very few whom bribes and promises could allure. The Stockton Independent, a paper which always puts a case fairly, says that in the whole State the aggregate vote which the "bolters'" tickets will receive can not possibly exceed five thousand. Hence it will be understood how little probability there is of the defeat of the Union party of California in the election of next month. A Legislature will be chosen which will pass the Amendment to the National Constitution abolishing slavery, and which will elect a loyal man to the United States Senate in the place of the petulant Copperhead who now disgraces that position. The Confederate newspapers of Oregon which are so high together because of the political situation in California, will learn after the election that the "Abolitionists" of that State are about as numerous as ever. Loyal and intelligent men now control these several States, and it is their purpose to do so in future in order that there may be no repetition of the terrible scenes which have lately been witnessed, and which are chargeable to the criminal conduct of disloyal men.

INTELLIGENCE FROM THE EASTERN MINES.—Mr. Wm. Graydon, who left this city in the fall of '6[illegible] with a party of friends to try their fortunes at a point situate east of the mountains returned here on Monday last, the 31st ultimo. Mr. G. has been working in what are called the "Prickly Pear Mines" since last spring, left there July 10th. The diggings are situate on the tributaries of the Little Prickly Pear, some twenty miles after crossing the divide of the Rocky Mountains at what is known as "Mullan's Pass," and, of course, are on the headwaters of the Missouri river. These mines are limited but rich. The gold is found in the gulches and is coarse in character. A number of claims are opened and the most of them paying well. Taking in "Nelson's Gulch," "Last Chance Gulch," "Greenhorn," "Silver Creek," &c., and the vicinity around, it is a low estimate to say that there are 3,000 men at work. A nugget of gold was taken out of Nelson's Gulch worth over $2,100, and a second "specimen" taken from the same gulch represented $440. Mr. G. quaintly remarked in giving these figures: "They may seem big, but tis so."

Advices are also given concerning the mining developments made on the Ophir and other streams emptying into the Little Blackfoot river, which camp is on this side of the mountains, not far from Deer Lodge. The particulars relative to this locality are but confirmatory of the information tendered by Mr. Shockley, published in our issue of the 21st ultimo.

Traveling westward, Mr. G. passed down Deer Lodge Valley and through a thriving settlement established on Cottonwood Creek near the farm of the famous man of the mountains, "Johnny Grant." Considerable mining was being done on Deer Lodge Creek. A number of immigrants had just arrived from St. Louis via Fort Benton with their families and anxious to get through to Walla Walla. Teams were called into requisition from Deer Lodge and the Bitter Root hauling freight from the steamboat landing at Fort Benton across the mountains to the stores of the merchants and others doing business in these valleys. Worden & Co. were transporting their annual supplies as usual from Benton to their trading post at Hellgate, [illegible] having selected them in the St. L[illegible] market. Captain C. P. Higgins, Worden's partner, has a saw mill in operation on Rattlesnake Creek, two or three miles from Hellgate, and a grist mill is in course of erection. Major John Owen, who has been to that country [illegible] is putting up a flouring mill near his Fort on the Bitter Root. Crops looked encouraging although the crickets had done much damage to [illegible]. This side of Bitter Root Mr. G. met [illegible] to six hundred persons wending their way to the localities mentioned. The Government Bridge across the Big Blackfoot river, some eleven miles from Hellgate had been repaired by private enterprise and is kept as a company as a toll bridge. Complaint was made about its being kept as a toll bridge [illegible] as it is on a government road. Mr. J. S. Caldwell has sold his interest in the Bitter Root [illegible] to other parties. The Flathead and Pend Oreille Indians are quiet and well disposed and giving no trouble to the miners, farmers and merchants in the Bitter Root and Deer Lodge valleys. Mr. G. intends to return to the mines again in a short time. [illegible]

POTATOES.—[illegible] says the Southern Confederacy is called [illegible] get her potato crop easily harvested. Almost everybody seems disposed to give her a lift.

Boise and Owyhee

[illegible] CORRESPONDENCE [illegible]

IDAHO CITY, August [illegible] 1865.

[illegible] the [illegible] heat with which it pours down in the Boise Basin is still an even [illegible] the [illegible] winters. In Boise City the nights are sultry and hot while here they are cool and refreshing, strikingly in contrast with the sultry days.

[illegible]

[illegible] are less [illegible] here than they have been before. The [illegible] everything here is dull. There [illegible] while many [illegible] left [illegible] many more will leave in the [illegible] the fact, the country [illegible] two-thirds of the population it now [illegible] everything languishes as a consequence [illegible] the resources of the country remain [illegible] with prospect that future [illegible] will [illegible] not lessen in its importance [illegible] quartz have lately taken place showing [illegible] monied men to the [illegible] Basin and vicinity, but at the same time [illegible] mills are said to be [illegible] paying [illegible] quartz [illegible] mines is good. More treasure is being sent down by Express than at any previous time, though that is not a fair criterion of the present product in comparison with the past, for the Express rates have been materially reduced, and as a consequence less money is carried in private hands. The water has fall[illegible] I am told, even earlier than it did last year despite the amount of snow that fell last winter, [illegible] owing to the fact that the snow went off followed by less than the usual amount of spring rains. The town is said to be now better built up than it was originally. I see quite a number of substantial bricks, made to be fireproof, and showing considerable enterprise and wealth. Many of the buildings on Main street are two and a few even three stories high, and while business in general languishes, the principal hotels are well filled and evidently making money. There are a multitude of saloons where [illegible] drinks are [illegible] these sultry days, and many of which [illegible] coining money. Ice is the great luxury of this whole country, and seems to be cheap and abundant. The Express and Post Office are handsomely rebuilt, and each seems to be [illegible] institutions. Mr. James Pinney, the Postmaster, has a handsome book and stationery store occupying one side of the room with Postoffice boxes, and all as nice as can be found in Portland. The Post Office here seems to have been much neglected considering its importance, for the enterprising Postmaster has to send all over the country to keep his neighbors supplied with stamps, scarce any ever having been sent to his office.

THEATRICAL ITEMS.

One most conclusive evidence of the difference of times in the Basin, is that amusements have failed to draw here as expected, though there were more companies in the field to compete for public favor and divide the profits. Potter has apparently abandoned the field entirely. His company has become disorganized, and were lately playing at Boise City with some talk of going to Salt Lake without him. The engagement of Mrs. Hayne was a failure and did not pay expenses, which was unfortunate as Potter showed a great deal of enterprise and deserved much better success. The fact is, money is not abundant here, and people spend it grudgingly for amusements, and freely for nothing but whisky. The Bell Ringers and Miss Clara are here but don't realize much profit by it. They are talking of taking the Chico route to California and will get enough "dust" there, if they didn't get any here. The Irwins and Robinsons have met with the most success, but even the houses they draw are poor average pay. I saw Mrs. Irwin a few evenings since do admirably as Andy Blake—her last appearance before leaving to fill a profitable engagement with the play-goers of the city of the saints. Brigham has made her a good offer, to remain and play for the saints until spring. The greatest house drawn this season is said to have been at the benefit of George Pardy, about two weeks since, when the theatrical talent of all the companies combined and gave a most successful entertainment. George is popular and his name draws well.

VARIETIES OF LIFE.

Quartz is not so predominant here as at Owyhee or South Boise, but even here there are occasional individuals troubled with its influence on the brain. They come from outlying districts as well as from near home, representing not only the ledges good, bad and indifferent that abound in the Basin but Silver Hill, South Boise, Yuba and Volcano, all candidates for mineral fame, and to each of which I intend to duly pay my devoirs during the present month. At present these quartz gentlemen are well represented in town, perhaps in attendance upon the District Court, which recognizes quartz as unfailingly upon its docket as any other criminal business, legal proceedings being as necessary in regard to quartz as to larceny. It is a study to go about the streets of Idaho City and observe the people. You can always find knots of them sitting about, whittling out a trade, or devising some scheme more or less honest—always see some despondent individual, the solitary occupant of a log or lumber pile resolved into a committee of whole on ways and means, perhaps grieving over his presence in Boise and inability to get away—one of the numerous ones who never ought to have come. It is a great chance that some exuberant fellow stops you out right to discuss the matter uppermost in his mind when he took his cargo of whisky on board, while the process of emptying glasses down throats is constantly in view. Peripatetic ice cream vendors abound, and one of the happiest groups I have met were seated around promiscuously in a by street in full miner's costume, sipping their share of the frozen dainty with every expression of satisfied enjoyment, passing their wine glasses up for replenishment as appetite became excited by the delicacy so originally administered.

SOME CRIMINAL CASES.

Court has been in session for a month, without accomplishing much thereby. The three men arrested for the triple murder that took place in [illegible] between Centerville and Placerville have been acquitted, as the testimony against them was very slight and circumstantial. Still there is no confidence felt here in their innocence. So this most horrible tragedy is unavenged. The special Grand Jury is now convened for the purpose of examining the evidence in the murder of Pinkham by Patterson. It is thought that he will certainly be indicted, though the friends of Patterson pretend to believe that he will certainly be discharged as not guilty. Politics will have much to do in this matter and it is doubtful what the result will be. Several cases of larceny and robbery have been decided against the parties indicted, but they are not of particular importance outside of the Territory. It is astonishing how over thirty lawyers find a livelihood in this vicinity, but there are that number on the rolls and they seem to be the most healthy looking men one meets. But if the clients have a woe-begone look, but even they outlive their expectations. The legal fraternity are gathered from many sources, not many hailing from Oregon.

POLITICAL MATTERS.

The annual election for members of the Legislature comes off in two weeks, but not a great deal of excitement exists in anticipation of it. Last Saturday evening the Democracy had a mass meeting which called together quite a crowd, as on that evening the miners always gather into town and all parties unite in hearing what the politicians have to say. I did not feel interest enough in the proceeding to attend, though I heard a few odd words about "democratic principles" and "nigger equality," as I passed late in the evening. The Democracy here have derived much edification and revival of faith from the presence of Milton of the Register, who is at present sojourning here, and is giving and receiving from the faithful. Pat made them his usual anti-Puritan harangue on the evening in question. I am told he explained very forcibly the national status, illustrating that "instead of raising [illegible] and [illegible] the people of New England [illegible] turned boots, [illegible]." That last item I have no doubt went heavily indeed against them with some of his [illegible]. The Union party are at work and can stand a good show to win at the election.

THE [illegible] A REBEL REGIMENT.—The New Orleans Picayune of a late date mentions the return of the remnant of the celebrated [illegible] Regiment of that city. This regiment at the time of its organization was fully eleven hundred strong. It was made up exclusively of young men from the "best families" of New Orleans. These aristocratic young bloods, in the exuberance of their rebellious spirits were going out to fight whole armies of cowardly Yankees, and to dictate a peace to their craven foes and return from the wars with all the eclat that waits on successful valor. The issue is something different from the depictions of their expectant future. When they were paroled but sixty-one of the [illegible] hundred were living. [illegible] [illegible] will hardly want [illegible] to show the wonders [illegible] power.

The times we live in and are passing through demand strong, substantial and experienced fire underwriters of the conservative and high toned school—companies of brains as well as capital, and a thorough knowledge of and an intimate acquaintance with the business as well as assets—companies that are uniform in their rules, firm in their rates, and prompt in the payment of every honest loss. Such an institution is the PHŒNIX OF HARTFORD, whose past bright record and present fair fame attest the legitimacy of its claim to preference and favor.

The Old PHŒNIX OF HARTFORD has adjusted and paid Two Hundred and Eleven [illegible] in California, amounting in the [illegible] to nearly

THE LIBRARY ROOMS.—The rooms of the [illegible] Library Association are open to the public every day and night in the week. The library is furnished with [illegible] volumes of the best [illegible] works extant. [illegible] New York [illegible] to be expected [illegible] number of valuable works [illegible] the twelfth annual [illegible] Mercantile Library [illegible] tion of this [illegible] return of our own [illegible] Library rates [illegible] say it stands high [illegible] tions of the country [illegible] was 18,000 volumes [illegible] works of romance [illegible] here. The first rent [illegible] they had on the shelves of the Library [illegible] they had 550 members and [illegible] that at the present [illegible] ing over the schedule of books [illegible] are of far greater value [illegible] San Francisco. We have [illegible] the latest publications [illegible] all a glory in future [illegible] favor of the best light [illegible] in our midst.

THE COAL SEAMS.—In [illegible] Secretary of the Treasury [illegible] with a resolution of the Senate of the United States and published in 1861, matters of interest [illegible] citizens, who are engaged [illegible] and coal beds in this [illegible] natural wealth of the [illegible] and the Mississippi States [illegible] is made to the prospects of the iron and [illegible] rious parts of the country [illegible] and descriptions are given [illegible] T Hodge, geologist of the [illegible] Pacific [illegible] ussures a description of the [illegible] sas, and at other places, [illegible] are at this time interested [illegible] but with [illegible] analysis of some specimens [illegible] classes them as belonging to the class of lignites [illegible] technically a bituminous [illegible] thracite. "Still," the report reads, "in common parlance it will be regarded as coal. [illegible] placed between dry wood and bituminous coal, and therefore it is a most valuable fuel. It may be used for the smelting of iron and other [illegible] steam boats) it could be employed [illegible] "Ignition of the fire [illegible] quantity, and so light, that [illegible] by the blast of the furnace [illegible] small stove, making a hot and clear fire [illegible] clinkers. The specimens that were examined [illegible] decay to break up and crumble after being soaked with water and allowed to dry, hence the necessity [illegible] tion from moisture.

THE COMING WORK ON OREGON.—We learn that Mrs. F. F. Victor is now engaged upon the final preparation of the copy of her work on Oregon. This lady has been very [illegible] in prosecuting her researches for information on the subject, since her arrival in Oregon, and we may expect many things have come under her observation, which were speedily becoming extinct that will now be made matters of history. Mrs. V. [illegible] In the purpose in which she has engaged we [illegible] we look with interest for the publication of her work [illegible] will be a faithful view of [illegible] Lately Mrs. Victor returned from a trip up the Columbia river. Recently a tour of the Willamette [illegible] made by her, and sketches from her ready pen [illegible] there is so much of interest to take [illegible]

[illegible]—By the arrival of the steamer John H. [illegible] evening we are informed that the bark Sea [illegible] Capt. Abbott, had reached Astoria seventeen days from San Francisco. About fifty tons of freight would be discharged, when the vessel would leave for this city. The bark Cambridge sailed for Honolulu on Tuesday, under [illegible] Capt. Staunard, relative of the [illegible] of the bark Almatia. The tug Rabboni would take the latter vessel over the bar yesterday, when she would sail for San Francisco with a very light cargo, all, 400 feet of lumber from Oak Point and about twenty-five [illegible] from Portland. There was nothing seen of the bark A. A. Eldridge, now due from Honolulu.

GEN. [illegible].—This celebrated commander in the Army of the P[illegible], during the campaigns from 1862 to 1864, is [illegible] stopping in Portland. For several days past the reports everywhere have accorded among us [illegible] to local matters, as when "[illegible] Richardson [illegible] gave orders," and we have only to say that "all is quiet in Portland." Items are scarce, we are [illegible] nothing to turn up, and with a hope of removing this barrenness we wish to see the General [illegible] leave the city by the next stage. This is not [illegible] welcome before he came among our people we were all in the highest sense of the term prosperous. [illegible]

THE BENEFIT.—The turn out to Lee & Ryland's Circus on the [illegible] of the grand complimentary benefit to [illegible] Engine Company No. 3, last evening was [illegible]. The pavilion was crowded. The Fire Company [illegible] benefit was met at their Engine House on [illegible] by members of other Companies of the [illegible] and headed by a band of music marched down [illegible] to Front street, thence to Stark, thence to First street and the Pavilion. The evening's entertainment [illegible]. The two children [illegible] riding and [illegible] gymnastic exercises, are seldom excelled by much older and more experienced performers. They [illegible] complimentary benefit.

FRUIT.—There never was a more abundant yield of fruit than [illegible] boast of the present season. Large ripe, [illegible] peaches, pears and plums. It makes one [illegible] to think of them. We visited the orchard of Dr. [illegible] recently, and were perfectly astonished at the [illegible] of a few trees. Of plums the Doctor [illegible]. Three trees produced what was disposed of [illegible] besides considerable more used by his family, and there is ripening at least a ton of the same kind [illegible] besides apples, etc., and the [illegible] covered by his orchard is not more than 200 feet square.

THE [illegible] PAVEMENT.—The work of squaring the [illegible] at the intersection of Front and Pine streets in this city, was completed yesterday by the [illegible] the Nicolson pavement. The work done [illegible] that we have ever taken notice of [illegible] there is ever a road of the Nicolson work [illegible] that done is an example for [illegible] may be [illegible]. There is no [illegible] about that "The [illegible] straight through.

[illegible]—We notice in our exchanges that [illegible] Butler, editor of the late Boise [illegible] a party who were lately surprised by [illegible] the Red Bluff and Owyhee trail. Tom was [illegible] but he barely escaped. He has always [illegible] of the Red Bluff route, but it is [illegible] the trail that [illegible] have continually infest it.

[illegible] Rescue—fast approaching. When again ready for the trade she will have [illegible] cabins, and fine accommodations for the [illegible] between this city and the Cowlitz river.

[illegible]—The barkentine Jane A. Falkinburg will soon be [illegible] for sea again. The fore-mast was [illegible]. It is in the place of timber, 25 inches [illegible] at the step, and 80 feet long. The hold of the [illegible] and clean as a powder house.

[illegible]—A dozen head of cattle each wearing a bell, [illegible] the city, embarking for the [illegible] at the Stark street ferry. The serenade [illegible] every door and window along the street.

THE [illegible].—The steamship Sierra Nevada, Capt. Francis Conner, will probably reach this port from San F[illegible] to-morrow, having sailed hither on [illegible]

[illegible] street is still lighted at night by the blaze of the fires in the wood on the Western [illegible]. There is no further damage expected [illegible] the fire.

[illegible] SALE.—The undivided one half interest of the North Portland steam saw mill [illegible] will be sold at [illegible] this morning at [illegible] of the Court House door.

THE PRESIDENT'S BROTHER.—Again, the president's brother [illegible] at Cairo, on the 25th of [illegible] brother of the President [illegible] Washington City. Johnson is said to be a modest, unassuming [illegible] of 50 years, with an inexhaustible fund of anecdote and quaint sayings. He is reported to have made [illegible] universally popular on the trip with his fellow [illegible] by his quiet and unostentatious demeanor.

"[illegible] SYMPATHY"—The Petersburg (Va.) Express [illegible] that returned Confederate prisoners are received there more coldly than they would be in Maine or [illegible]. They wander about the streets, reduced to skeletons, suffering from wounds, on crutches, in rags, without food or money, and are more kindly treated by the Yankees than by the inhabitants of the Cockade city. There's gratitude for you!

OUT WEST.—The young ladies out west keep a light in the parlor to a late hour on Sunday night, to make believe" they've caught a beau.

Attention Washington Guard.—You are [illegible] meeting and drill at the Armory this (Friday) evening at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is [illegible] business of importance will be transacted.
By order W. H. MACKAY, O. S.

TO NEUTRALIZE OFFENSIVENESS.—In many forms we use disinfecting agents. Impure breath caused by bad teeth, tobacco, spirits or catarrh is neutralized by [illegible]. It is a healthful beautifier, and a great luxury as a dentrifice. The repulsive breath is by its use rendered as fragrant as a rose, and coldness by friends or lovers will be no longer noticed.

TRIBUTE FROM AN OFFICER TO THE PRIVATE SOLDIER.—Major General Slocum, the famous commander of Sherman's left wing, in a reception speech at Syracuse, lately, referred to an article in a Syracuse newspaper, which, he said, "had contrasted the reception given to an officer with that given to a private soldier. Both entered the service from this county, both had been wounded in the same battle and returned under similar circumstances—yet how different their receptions! The officer was met at the depot by a large number of friends and most cordially greeted. The soldier was met by an only sister, and by her alone accompanied to his home. I presume there are not ten men within the reach of my voice who remember the article to which I refer, and I am very confident no one was more impressed by it than myself. I felt it, for I was the officer to whom allusion was made, and I could not but acknowledge the justice of the article. Our private soldiers unlike those of other countries, enter the service generally from purely patriotic motives. They make equal sacrifices and endure even greater hardships than their officers. In all those traits of character which you delight to honor the soldier has claims upon you equal at least to his officers. The field of battle is not the only test of courage and manliness in the life of a soldier; the long and fatiguing march, the labor in the trenches, the short allowances of food, are all tests as severe as any presented by battle. I have seen the men of my command, after working waist deep in water, building bridges over the rivers and roads through the swamps of the Carolinas, go quietly to their tent, and, without the change of clothing, make an ear of corn supply the place of the usual ration. I have seen this frequently—and never yet heard a word of complaint. Happily, all these things are now over. The soldier's work is done and well done. They return to you better men, physically and mentally, than when they left you, and I am confident you will find the mass of them uninjured in morals. Open your shops to them, give them good employment, and I am certain you will find them as faithful as citizens as they have been as soldiers."

Horsemen, Now is Your Time!

I EXPECT TO EXHIBIT COBERG AND HIS FAMILY at the Oregon State Fair, Oct. [illegible] at Salem. I challenge the coast to meet me and produce a Family or a well authenticated history of a Family in America that will surpass them for size, form, style, action and their adaptation to general use except sporting purposes. I will have some yearling colts for sale.

Persons wishing to secure the services of COBERG in Northern Oregon, for the season of 1866 can do so by seeing me on my way to or at the Fair.

I deem it unnecessary to give an extended description here, but would invite persons to call and see for themselves. Would say that I have reliable information that where the COBERG stock has been in use in Illinois for 18 years, at least, they give satisfaction and bring more money than any other stock of horses.

Letter from Robert Dale Owen

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

The first point is that the States composing the Union and their representative population have hitherto differed [illegible] while the actual population in 1860, being upward of thirty-one millions (31,148,047), and the representative population about twenty-nine millions and a half only 29,553,771. The difference between the two is nearly [illegible] hundred thousand (1,594,774). See [illegible] Census, pages 131 [illegible].

The reason of this is apparent. In the year 1860 there were [illegible] four millions of slaves [illegible] in these States. These slaves were not estimated in the representative population man for man. Five of them were estimated as three. [illegible] Thus the South, in virtue of that legal fiction of two and a half [illegible] hundred thousand additional freemen, had eighteen members of Congress added to her representation. Her total number of representatives being eighty-four, she owed to [illegible] more than one fifth of that number to her slave property. It follows that if in a republican Government the number of freemen be the proper basis of representation she had upwards of one fifth more political influence than her just share. Each one of her voters possessed a power (so far as the election of the President and of the House of Representatives was concerned) greater by one-fifth than that of each northern voter.

No man friendly to equal rights, even if, [illegible] what may, he restricts the principle to persons of his own color, will offer a justification of a partition of political power so unfair as this. It was not defended on principle by those who assented to it. It was accepted as a necessity, a supposed necessity in the construction out of discordant materials, of the American Union.

We of the North have hitherto acted upon it as men under duress—our hands bound by the Constitution—as it were under protest. We preferred unequal division of power as regards the two great sections of the Republic to the chances of anarchy.

That was in the past. Are we in the future, having got rid by terrible sacrifice of the cause of that injustice, willing to tolerate the injustice itself, even in aggravated form? Doubtless; now that our hands are free, we have no such intention. Let us take heed lest we increase and perpetuate this abuse as men often do, without intention.

Seldom, if ever, has there been imposed on any ruler a task more thickly surrounded with difficulties than that now before you—of reconstruction in the late insurrectionary States. Uncertain as we are of the sentiments and intentions of men just emerging from a humiliating defeat, little more can be done than to institute an experiment and then wait to see what comes of it. It would be premature to lay down any settled plan from which let events turn as they will there is to be no departure. We are traversing unknown and treacherous seas, and must take soundings as we go. Nor should we omit the precaution of a sharp look out for breakers ahead. It seems to me that we may expect such on the course we are pursuing.

The present experiment [illegible] to be, to leave the work of reconstructing Government in the late rebel South to the loyal whites, or, more accurately stated, to the whites who shall have purged themselves from the crime of treason (actual or implied), so far as an oath, taken from whatever motive, can effect such purgation. Will this experiment, if it proceed unimpeded, result in the permanent exclusion of the negro from suffrage?

In proof that it will, it might suffice to [illegible] that these men have grown up in the belief—have been indoctrinated from the cradle in the conviction—that the African is a degraded race. And that the war has brought the blacks and whites of the South into antagonistic relations exasperating against the former alike the rich planters, from whose mastership they fled, and the "poor whites," who always hated them, and for whom emancipation (raising despised ones to their level,) is a personal affront.

But there is a motive for exclusion in this case stronger than anger, more powerful than hatred—the incentive of self-aggrandizement. They who are made the judges are to be the [illegible] unfairly but vastly the gainers—by their own decision.

[illegible] to the working of this thing. By the constitution the representative population is to consist of all free persons and three-fifths of all other persons. If by next winter, slavery shall have disappeared there will be no "other persons" in the South. Her actual population will then coincide with her representative population. She will have gained as to Federal representation, 1,60[illegible] [illegible] persons. She will be entitled, not as now to eighty-four members, but to ninety-four; and her votes for President will be in proportion. Congress, if it intends that the Constitutional rule shall prevail, will have to alter the apportionment so as to correspond to the new order of things.

Now, if the negro is admitted to vote, the constitutional rule will operate justly, for then each voter in the South will have precisely the same political influence as a voter in the North. The unjust three-fifths principle will have disappeared forever.

On the other hand, if color be deemed cause of exclusion, then all the political power which is withheld from the emancipated slave is gained by the Southern white. For though by law we may deny suffrage to the freedman, we cannot prevent his being reckoned among those free persons who constitute the basis of representation. His presence, whether disfranchised or not, adds in spite of all we can do, to the political influence of the State: for it increases the number of its votes for President and the number of its representatives in Congress. Now [illegible] must gain by this. The gain is shared equally by every actual voter in the State. If in any State, the number of blacks and whites is equal, and if, in that State, blacks are excluded from voting, then every white voter will go the polls armed with twice the political power enjoyed by a white voter in any northern State. But again, this is on the supposition that every white adult in the State is loyal, and therefore entitled to vote.

Are the half of all Southern male adults at this time, or will they be for years to come, more than lip-loyal if even that? I think you will not say that they are. It would surely be an extravagant calculation. If more than half the whites in [illegible] insurrectionary States shall actually qualify themselves as voters, will you not find [illegible] if compelled to administer the Government in the [illegible] portion of the Union, through the agency of its enemies? One-third would be a full estimate in my [illegible], for the truly loyal.

But let us assume that two-thirds of all the white male adults of the South become voters, and that they exclude from suffrage, by law or by constitutional provision, all persons of color, what would be the political consequences under such a state of things? If, (as we may [illegible]), by destruction through war and by [illegible] of population through emigration to Mexico, to Europe and elsewhere, the number of whites [illegible] the late rebel States shall have been reduced until blacks and whites exist there in nearly equal numbers, then, in the case above [illegible], each voter in these States, when he approached the ballot box [illegible] Congressional or Presidential election, would do so, wielding three times as much political influence as a voter in a Northern State. This vast advantage once gained by Southern whites, is it likely that they will ever relinquish it?

For, if we disfranchise the negro, is there any escape from such consequences, except by rooting out from the Constitution the principle that the whole number of free persons shall be the basis of [illegible]. But that principle lies at the base of all free government. We [illegible] republicanism itself when we discard it.

Thus it appears that the present experiment in reconstruction, if suffered to run its course, and if interpreted as I think we have just cause to fear that it will be, tends (inevitably, it may be said) to bring about two results:

First—To cause the disfranchisement of the freedman. Whether we effect this directly, as by provision of law or by a disqualifying clause in a proclamation, or whether we do it by leaving the decision to his former masters and his old enemies, matters nothing except in form and in words; the result is brought about with equal certitude in either way. Passion, prejudice and self interest concur to produce this result.

Second—It establishes—not the odious three fifths [illegible], not even merely a five-fifths clause—but something much worse than either. It permits the investiture of the Southern white with a preponderance of political power, such as no class [illegible] in a democratic republic ever enjoyed since the world began.

[illegible] do not—believe me in this, Mr. President—overlook or underrate the grave embarrassments that beset your path, turn as you will. I call to mind the overbearing influence of passion and prejudice, and I admit that when these prevail in exaggerated form throughout a large portion of any nation, a wise ruler recognizes the fact of their existence and regulates his acts accordingly. But the sway of passion and prejudice, despotic for a season, has but a limited term of endurance, and should be treated as an evanescent thing. It is too transient and unstable to furnish basis for a comprehensive system of policy. Tenderly it should be treated [illegible] weakly obeyed.

[illegible] Southern [illegible] their legally [illegible] rights [illegible] and fellow citizens [illegible] habitually [illegible] But to suffer [illegible] vote for President, or for representatives of the people to be clothed with three times as much power as is possessed [illegible] right, is very surely [illegible]

And what manner of men, I pray you, are those whom [illegible] political power [illegible] especially of [illegible] [illegible] the truth [illegible]

[illegible]

There are [illegible] system. [illegible]

[illegible] exceptions [illegible] Such exceptions are to be found in all communities no matter how peril [illegible] the surroundings. [illegible]

[illegible] "Whenever [illegible] I'll tell them they may not [illegible] I don't want to live in a world that I can't [illegible] out of work."

Is it [illegible] that ignorant illiterate victims [illegible] ... Are the votes of three such men as Stanton, Seward, Sumner or Garrison [illegible] Sherman to be neutralized by the ballot of one such low-witted boor?

Are there no [illegible] also? To such an issue as that must not the late [illegible] faithfully [illegible] and intended for good, practically good?

The duty of the United States to guarantee to every State in the Union a republican form of government is as sacred as the duty to protect each of them from invasion. Is that duty fulfilled when, with the power of prevention in our own hands, we suffer the white voter in the least loyal, the least intelligent and the least industrious section of our country to usurp a measure of political power three-fold greater than in the rest of the nation a voter enjoys?

Will it be denied that we have the legal power in our own hands?

Unsuccessful rebellion cannot by [illegible] paper called secession ordinances, take a State out of the Union, but by levying civil war they can convert all the inhabitants of a State into public enemies deprived, as such, by law of their political rights. The United States can restore these rights, and pardon these public enemies. And we have the right to pardon upon conditions, as for example, on the condition that slavery shall cease to exist, or on the condition that none of those persons who form the basis of representation shall, because of color, be deprived of the right of suffrage.

If we neglect to impose the first condition, the cause of the late rebellion will continue and will some day produce another. If we neglect to impose the second condition an oligarchy on an extended scale will grow up in one large section of the country, working great injustice toward the voters of another section. The three-fifths abuse will appear in a giant form.

But if we omit [illegible] it cannot fail to produce, as slavery produced, alienations and heart burnings. Under any plan of reconstruction involving so flagrant an injustice it is in vain to expect harmony or permanent peace between the Northern and Southern sections of the Union.

It is not here denied, nor is it deniable, that, under ordinary circumstances, a State may, by a general law applicable to all, restrict the right of suffrage, as for example to those who pay taxes, or to those who can read and write. And it is quite true that the effect of such a law would be to give additional political power to those who still enjoyed the elective franchise. But a State can only do this after she has a State Government in operation, not when she is about to frame one. North Carolina is in the Union, as she has always been, but her people having lost by war against the Government, their political rights are [illegible] allowed to go on under their old Constitution and laws. They have to begin again. As Idaho, if desiring to be a State would have to do, the people of North Carolina have to elect members of a Convention which Convention has to frame a State Constitution, to be presented for acceptance or rejection to Congress. Now, just as Idaho, taking her first step toward State sovereignty, could not, on her own authority, begin by denying a vote in the election of members of her Convention to half her free population, or if she did would find her Constitution rejected, for that cause, by Congress as not emanating from the whole, so, in my judgment ought not North Carolina, having forfeited her State rights and beginning anew as a Territory, [illegible] to be permitted, in advance, to reject more than a third of her free population—361,522 out of 992,622. [illegible] people will not so abstract her rights as to venture on such a rejection. If she does, Congress ought to reject her [illegible] authorized by a part of her people only.

But beyond all this we cannot safely allow the negro's exclusion to [illegible] take its chance along with other possible restrictions to suffrage which a State fully organized may see fit to enact. First, because of its magnitude. It is an act of exclusion by one half the free inhabitants of an entire section of a country against the other half equally free. Secondly, because of its character and results. It is an act of injustice to those who have assaulted the life of the nation against those who have defended the nation's life; an act by which we abandon to the tender mercies of the doubtfully loyal and the disguised traitor, those whose loyalty has stood every test, [illegible], mistaken, men ignorant and simple indeed, but whose rude fidelity never failed either the Union fugitive, hunted in the forest, or the Union cause imperiled on the battle field.

The decision of a matter so grave as this should be taken out of the category of those rights which a State, at her option, may grant or may withhold, because being national in its consequences it is national in its character. This is a matter for Federal interference because, like emancipation, it is a matter involving the Federal safety.

It is because I know the frankness of your own character, Mr. President, that at possible risk of conflicting opinions I write to you thus frankly. It is because I am deeply impressed by the vast importance of the issues at stake that I write to you at all.

I think of the Union soldiers, the survivors of a thousand fields. I recall the last days, not of conflict but of triumph, when the rebel armies were attacked and Confederate power was given, and the stars and bars fell before the old flag. I remember with what fierce fury those who surrendered at last fought throughout four years, desperately, to shatter into fragments that benignant Government under which, for three-quarters of a century, they had enjoyed peace and protection. I remember all that [illegible] we had suffered and sacrificed before the [illegible] [illegible] I think that never was [illegible] nation [illegible] owes to her deliverers from anarchy and dismemberment a deeper debt of gratitude and good will.

Then I ask [illegible] great question. Shall these soldiers, returning from fields of death to Northern fields of the rivalry of peaceful contests, [illegible] in which the ballot is the only weapon, and the bulletin of defeat or of victory is contained in the election returns—shall these [illegible] who never flinched before rebellion [illegible] strategems? Their weapons of war laid aside, is the reward of these [illegible] to be this, that each man shall be entitled to one third so much influence in administering their country's government as the [illegible] who they conquered? [illegible] legislation?

It is [illegible] the nation can't fail ere long to ask itself, and who will doubt what the ultimate answer will be.

May God [illegible] through [illegible] great crisis of our nation's history [illegible] the right.

ROBERT DALE OWEN.

New York, June 21, 1865.

The Boston [illegible] publishes an interesting private letter from South Carolina written by a gentleman who has had peculiar facilities for observation. He says the citizens of the interior, who had been sobered by the misfortunes of war, have become hardened again by the soldiers, who are actually [illegible]. Prominent men of all classes [illegible] We accept the Union only on condition that the negro be left out. Even Governor Aiken said to the writer, "I cannot believe that negro emancipation will be anything but a failure. The whites of the South cannot live with them if free." [illegible]

[illegible] Sanborn of Concord, the well known friend and correspondent of John Brown, is now [illegible] throwing much light upon the expedition of Capt. John Brown to Virginia, with additional facts pertaining to it.

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction, even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES!

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned to this State, after an absence of one year, during which time he has visited all the principal hospitals of Europe, among them those of Dublin, London and Paris. The following celebrated hospitals of London are among those visited by the Doctor: Guy's, High street, Borough; St. Bartholomew's, Smithfield; St. Mary's, Camb. Place, Paddington; Lock, Harrow road; St. Luke's, Old street; University, Gower street; Westminster, Broad Sanctuary; Charing Cross, Agar street, Strand; London, Whitechapel road; Royal Free, Gray's Inn road; King's College, Portugal street.

DOCTOR GIBBON has also visited Doctors Acton of London, Parker of [illegible], England, and Ricord of Paris, who are considered the best physicians and surgeons in the world, and whose authority is acknowledged to be the highest in the treatment of Sexual Diseases.

DOCTOR GIBBON has derived from them their new mode of treatment which cannot be surpassed.

DOCTOR GIBBON has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with new facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Disease.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the business of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death [illegible] the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies, see that they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, but [illegible] upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse, the solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequently insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by any other of the San Francisco [illegible].

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.
